THE enquiry into the recent murder of a barber at Tai Kok Tsui was further continued at the Police Court to-day. Dr Marques repeated the evidence he gave at the inquest held on the body, and a Chineso Sergeant of Police who arrested the first prisoner also repeated his evidence. Kam Mui, the wife of a barber at Hung Hom, said deceased had been employed by her husband up to the time of his death, and the second prisoner was in her husband's employ last year. Shortly after the second prisoner was discharged by her husband, she saw him and the deceased fighting and quarrelling. She did not know whether or not they had ever made friends again with each other. The case was again remanded antil the 22nd instant.

THE case in which two of the men believed to have been engaged in the late Hwaichow disturbances are charged with murder was opened at the Police Court this morning and some rather startling statements were made by some of the witnesses for the prosecution. A somewhat elderly, and not particularly martial looking lieutenant of Imperial braves, unblushingly admitted skedaddling immediately an attack was made upon his camp, without waiting to measure swords with what he himself states to have been nothing but a band of robbers. Strangest of all, neither he nor The delivery of the China Mail is com- any of the witnesses examined had ever heard of the Triad Society; didn't know there was such an organization in China! about 8.30 p.m. Subscribers frequently | The officer understood by his instructions that he was sent with three hundred men to Num-chun to catch thioves, 'as he had heard that there had been a robbery there.' -We were rather surprised to see that no one appeared in the Court to watch the case on behalf of the Crown Authorities here, and the solicitor who appeared on a previous occasion for the defence was also conspicuous by his absence. .

A SOMEWHAT original speculation was started this morning at No. 104, Queen's Road Central, the originators of the venture being, we believe, strangers in the Colony. Application was made to the Captain Superintendent of Police for permission to open a gallery for the display of photographic pictures, and this being granted, the 'show' was opened this morning and has since then been crowded with Chinese and other visi-A panie has taken place in the New York | tors. The display of pictures turns out to be a clever scheme for the rapid sale of a largestock of cheap fancy articles, partaking to a great extent, of the nature of a lottery. The shop is arranged with a long counter running down the centre. Behind the counter, on a red clothicovering the wall, are attached several rows of photographs of the ordinary carte size, from a variety of subjects, views, groups of statuary, copies of paintings, &c. The investors pay their 20 cents to the proprietor or the lady behind the counter and point out with a long stick given them the 'photo' they select. The 'photo' is given to them and on the back of it is printed the name of some fancy article which they have also won. These for the most part. consist of such knick-knacks as penknives, The S.S. All, however, get for their 20 cents the 'photo ' and some sort of prize. A roaring trade has been done during the day, the pathway outside having been at times quite blocked by the rush of inquisitive visitors or investors. We heard of one man who got a picture worth $5 for his 20 cents, another got three penknives and two knife sharponers

In short, it looked for a brief period, as an officer afterwards expressed it to me, as if no life in that crowd were worth five minutes' purchase. My own horse growing excited in The Society having given substantial aid the confusion, dragged me outside the to the Dispensary carried on for the past | square on the left flank, and I just mountyear at Lien Chow, a few words as to that | ed him in time to escape being speared by field may be proper. I reached them soon enough to see Major Brabazon, in easy reach of four or five quite large of the 10th Hussars, dismount his squadron towns. With no place for in-patients, ex- Buller's square. The critical moment had asserted. During the retreat the men did not all tamely submit to be speared. I saw several, when finding themselves hopelessly overtaken, turn round and grapple with their assailants—soldier and Arab in many instances falling together. Eleven men of were acting as mule drivers fought desperately, two of them killing many Arabs before they at last fell, back to back. Lieutenant Graham was among the last to leave the guns, which, of course, being abandoned by the Infantry, were for a time on the point of reaching them. Even the zarecbah bohind was throatened, and Gonoral Stowart sent a squadron of the 10th Hussars to support the details of various regiments that were holding it.

The remainder of the battle is soon described. So soon as the broken Brigade lud been reformed, this time in one long line, with two companies of the Highlanders on the left thrown back, the whole steadily advanced to the brink of the ravine in this manner, retaking the guns as they went :--

1st Brigado. 2d Brigade.

Again the enemy charged, but on this occasion there was no flinching. All were as steady as rocks, and the gallant Arabs went down in front of them literally in hundreds. Those of them who were lying concealed on the steep banks of the ravine actually charged up as our men lined the brink; but they now charged vainly. The battle was won, and the bulk of Osman Digna's army lay dead and wounded on the ground. But even the survivors were not altogether beaten. All day they maintained distant fire, and many who lay hidden in the bushes would jump up singly and attack somotimes numerous parties of our people. The wounded, too, were dangerous, and to cross the field after the light it was necessary to carry one's pistol rendy cocked in hand. During the period that the men were forming up for the second advance the enemy had endeavoured to drag the abandoned guns away. They had actually got one Gatling some way down the ravine. and the limber of another they set fire to on finding that we were about to regain possession of it. The field itself was a deastly sight. The Arabs had fallen by hundreds. As at El Teb the dead Arabs lay amidst the skeletons of those who died in Baker's fight, so here the blenched bones of the Black Battalion massacred three months ago seemed to justify the slaughter. But it was pitiable to see probably the pith and manhood of all the neighbouring tribes lying dead amongst the bushes. They were of all ages; in one spot much visited by our men a young boy not more than ten years old was lying stark and stiff beside an ancient patriarch with long streaming grey hair-old enough, evidently, to be has great grandfather. The native spies of Mahmond Ali's friendly tribes who accompanied us moved over the ground, sad and archast at the fearful sight. As one of them remarked to me. This is not lighting; it is death. We do not believe in the-Mahdi, and do not like to see fighting ; butthe Arabs and the Ingleezee both seem to revel in it. One is as bad as the other.' Poor people, they had to be carefully cacorted, for the soldiers of the Second Brigade eyed their long hair, distinctive of the Arab of this country, angrily and

THE CHINA REVIEW.

PUBLISHED BI-MONTHLY TENTH YEAR

TITHIS Review, which was intended to meet 1 the wants of many students of Chinese cansed by the discontinuance of " Notes and Queries on China and Japan," has reached its Twelfth Volume. The Review discusses those topics which are uppermost in the minds of students of the "Far East" and about which every intelligent person connected with China or Japan is desirous of acquiring trustworthy information. It includes many interesting Notes and original Papers on the Arts, Sciences, Ethnology, Books. Folklore, Geography, History, Literature, Mythology, Natural History, Antiquities, and Social Manners and Customs, etc., etc., of China, Japan, Mongolia, Tibet, and the Far East generally. Recently a new departure has been taken, and the Review now gives papers on Trade, Commerce, and Descriptive notes of Travel by well-known writers. It was thought that by extending paper, it will not be charged less than 5 the scope of the Review in this direction, cents. the Magazine would be made more generally

The Review department receives special attention, and endeavours are made to present a careful and concise record of Literature on China etc., and to give critiques embodying skerches of the Most recent works on such topics. Authors and Publishers are requested to forward works to "Editor, China Review, care of China Mail Office.

The Notes and Queries are still continued and form an important means of obtaining i from and diffusing among students knowledge on obscure points.

or any of the Modern Languages are recoived. The papers are contributed by the members of the various Consular, the Imperial Customs, and Hongkong Services; and also by the Missionary bodies amongst whom a high degree of Chinese scholarship is assiduously cultivated. Amongst the regular contributors are Drs. Chalmers, Eitel, Bretschneider, Hirth, and Hance, Professor Legge, and Mesers Ballour, Watters, Stout, Phillips, MacIntyre, Groot, Jamieson, Faber, Kopsch, Parker, Playfair, Giles, and Piton, -all well-known names, indicative of sound scholarship and thorough mastery of their subject.

annum, postage included -- payable in ad-Orders for binding volumes will be promptly attended to Address, "Manager, China Mail Office."

Opinions of the Press. "All our learned societies should subscribe to this scholarly and enterprising Review.".-Northern Christian Advocate (U.S.) "The China Review * * * has an excellent table of contents." -- Celestial Empire. "The Publicationalways contains subjects of interest to sojourners in the Far East and the present issue will hold favourable if not advantageous comparison, with preceding numbers."-Celestial Empire.

"This number contains several articles of interest and value."-North-China Herold. "The China Review for September-October fully maintains the high standard of excellence which characterises that publication, and altogether forms a very interesting and readable number. Metoorologists will find an interesting and valuable contribution by Dr. Fritsche, on "the Amount of Precipitation (Rain and Snow) of Peking," showing the results of observations made at the Imperial Russian Observatory at Peking, from 1841 to 1880. "Notes on the Dutch Occupation of Formosa," by Mr. Geo. Phillips, contains some interesting information, although much of it is second-hand. The Notices of New Books include a most generous and approciative review of "The Divine Classic of Nan-Hua," and the Notes and Queries are as usualvery interesting."-North-Chine

"A substantial and reliable Review which all students of China and the Chinese would do well to patronise."—Chrysanthemann. "The November-December number of the China Review contains less variety than usual, but the few arricles are very inieres. ting. The opening paper by Mr Herbert A. Giles on "The New Testament in Chinese" treats of a question that must necessarily be of great importance in the eyes of all missionaries. . . Mr E. H. Parker's "Short Journeys in Szechuen" are continued, and a goodly instalment of these travels in the interior of China is given. Mr F. H. Balfour contributes a paper of some length entitled "The Emperor Cheng, founder of the Chinese Empire," which will be read with genuine interest by students of Chinese history. A. few short notices of New Books and number of Notes and Queries, one of which Mails. "On Chinese Oaths in Western Borneo and Java" might appropriately have been placed under a separate heading, complete the number."—H.K. Daily Press.

Trubner's Oriental Record contains the following notice of the China Review:-The present publication, judging by the number now before us, is intended to occupy a position, as regards China and the neighbouring countries, some what similar to that which has been filled in India by the Ac., all of the same weight, to addresses in Calcutta Review. The great degree of at- Hongkong, Bangkok, or the Ports of tention that has been bestowed of late years | China, may deliver them to the Post upon the investigation of Chinese literature, Office unstamped, the postage being then antiquities, and social developments, to say charged to the sender's account. Each nothing of linguistic studies, has led to the accumulation of important stores of information, rendering some such channel of publicity as is now provided extremely desirable; and contributions of much interest may fairly be looked or from the members of the foreign consular services, the Chinese Customs' corps, and the missionary body, among whom a high degree of Chinese scholarship is now assiduously cultivated, and who are severally represented in the first number of the Review by papers highly creditable to their respective authors . . . Some translations from Chinese novels and plays are marked by both accuracy and freshness of style; and an account of the career of and detail, we are glad to notice that nature of the contents was discovered. "Notes" and "Queries" are destined to find a place in its pages also. It is to be hoped that this opening for contributions on Chinese subjects may evoke a similar degree of literary zeal to that which was displayed during the lifetime of its predecessor in the field, and that the China Review may receive the support necessary to insure its continuance.
